

The Geography Cross Border Field Study at Taiwan

To enhance students' interest in Geography, facilitate them to apply knowledge and concepts they have learnt in Geography to the reality and consolidate their learning, teachers from Geography Department designed a cross border field study from 2 to 6 March. Thirty students joined the tour and conducted in-depth enquiry studies at Northeast and Yilan Coast National Scenic Area, Plunto Diablos, Yangmingshan National Park, etc. They studied the geological and ecological landscape, social, cultural, urban, and economic development of Taiwan and made comparisons with those in Hong Kong. During the trip, students were greatly engaged in the application of their knowledge and asked a lot of questions. They broadened their horizons and got memorable experience.
