

The 74th Cadet Induction Course Graduation Ceremony of the Auxiliary Medical Service Cadet Corps
(N.T. Heung Yee Kuk Yuen Long District Secondary School Platoon)
(4 October 2026)

The 74th Cadet Induction Course was specially arranged by the Auxiliary Medical Service Cadet Corps for our school unit. The three-day programme comprised a total of 24 hours of training, covering Auxiliary Medical Service Orders, first-aid skills, foot drills, disciplinary training, National Security Education, basic etiquette, and other areas. The course was successfully completed on 4 October 2026 (Sunday). The 74th Cadet Induction Course Graduation Ceremony was also held on this day.

Graduating from the induction course is not the end, but the beginning of Regular Unit Training. We hope that our students will actively participate in future training and community service, and put the knowledge, attitudes, and values they have acquired into practice both at school and in their daily lives. May they learn to exercise self-discipline and take responsibility in everyday life, remain humble and resilient when facing challenges, and never give up easily. Through these experiences, we hope they will become capable and responsible individuals.

The Auxiliary Medical Service Cadet Corps provides members with comprehensive whole-person development training with medical knowledge and skills at its core. Through professional training in areas such as medical care and public health, together with disciplinary training, the Cadet Corps seeks to nurture good character and a strong sense of responsibility, preparing members to contribute to the community in the future.

New cadets receive Chinese foot drill training

New cadets receive basic first-aid skills training

Principal CHAN delivers his heartfelt address to the new cadets gathered in the school hall during the Graduation Ceremony

Principal CHAN (center) takes a photo with Mr. CHAN Wai-kuen, Acting Chief Staff Officer of the Auxiliary Medical Service (3rd left), and AMS senior officers

Principal CHAN takes a photo with Mr. CHAN Wai-kuen, Acting Chief Staff Officer of the Auxiliary Medical Service, AMS officers, new cadets and their parents